Employee recognition an important part of Chamber's 2006 Shop Local campaign

BY VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Recognition of the important role that employees play in the success of our local businesses will be a special part of this year's Shop Local campaign. Businesses which are members of Elk Point and District Chamber of Commerce are being contacted this week to invite the employers and their staff to Employee and Staff Appreciation Evening on Wednesday, May 17 at the Seniors' Recreation Centre.

Several member businesses have contributed roast beef, potatoes and salad for the supper, with the remaining businesses who attend asked to contribute toward the dessert buffet. Following the meal, guest speaker Walter DeSilva will offer his thoughts on the importance of good customer service.

The Shop Local campaign is scheduled to start June 1, just in time for the busy weekend which includes the 4-H Multi Club Achievement Day, the Elk Point Auto Club Show and Shine and the Chamber's Community-Wide Garage Sale. This is the third consecutive year for the campaign, and Shop Local chairman Dwayne Odgaard says "we are the only community in the area doing this for a third year."

Odgaard said, however, that an expanding the event had also expanded the budget, but donations toward the event are not keeping pace. After hearing words of support from chamber president Sandy Smith, economic development officer Thomas Kondla and chamber treasurer Lesia Porcink, the membership agreed to cover any shortfall for the campaign, which includes radio and newspaper advertising as well as prize draws for a total of $1,000 in gift certificates, which the chamber plans to purchase from member businesses. Odgaard says the committee decided this would "spread the benefit around more between the businesses" than the Elk Point Bucks which were the prizes for the first two campaigns.

Development planning involves community

Kondla reported that the community planning SWOT sessions went well. "We got everyone to sign up in focus groups, and there are now 40 people working on community development." The first of the four focus sessions was held Tuesday night, with members of that group exploring marketing and communications tools such as websites, signage, brochures and the tourist information centre. The largest group, with 17 members, will meet next week to study recreation and lifestyle, while other groups are working on business retention and expansion and opportunity identification, Kondla says.

"It's a big step for the community."

Homicide at Frog Lake

REVIEW STAFF

Two suspects have been arrested and charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of a 38-year-old man from Frog Lake.

Rocky Moyah was reported dead shortly after 4:30 p.m. last Friday on the First Nations Reserve and an autopsy was scheduled to take place May 8.

Elk Point RCMP requested help from the St. Paul RCMP and the Edmonton RCMP Major Crimes Unit to investigate the homicide.

RCMP spokesperson Cpl. Wayne

Oakes said the police aren't in a position to address any rumours surrounding the case and aren't releasing many details surrounding the homicide.

"That may compromise the whole court process," said Oakes. However, he hopes more information will eventually become available.

The investigation is ongoing, with additional arrests and charges anticipated.

Aaron Smith, 18, of Frog Lake, and a 16-year-old male youth will appear in St. Paul Provincial Court this Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

Oilmen reflect on another great year

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point Oilmen's Association looked back on a busy and successful year at last Tuesday's annual meeting at the Elk Point Golf and Country Club.

Both their golf tournament and curling bonspiel were hugely successful, thanks to the efforts of all the members and volunteers who helped to organize and carry out the events. Both the golf course and curling rink received donations toward new equipment from the association in appreciation of their part in the events.

The Oilmen were one of the major contributors to the Elk Point and District Lions community message sign, and also made a number of other contributions throughout the community.

Last Canada Day, the Oilmen revived their involvement in the program, bringing back a long-ago favourite, the tug-of-war, which proved very popular with spectators and participants alike.

The Oilmen now have their own computer, which was kindly donated by E-Can Oilfield Services.

An important part of the annual meeting is the election of officers, with the president and two, one-year directors voted in annually, the first vice-president, treasurer and two, two-year directors elected in even years, such as 2006, and the second vice-president, secretary and remaining two, two-year directors elected in odd years, such as 2005.

President Don Mudryk is back for another term, with Dave Cousins moving from first vice-president to past president, Wayne Mudryk becoming the new first VP. Treasurer Al Pankiw is back in that role for another term. Jason Hayman and Robyn Moroziuk, a former one-year director, became the new two-year directors taking over positions formerly held by Murray Cochrane and Tim Smereka, while Jason Jenner and Mark Hassan are the new one-year directors. Remaining on the executive from their election last year are secretary Werner Schmitt, second vice-president Ken Ference and two-year directors Doug Golledge and Lindsay Jenner.

Review Staff

Elk Point Canada Day committee has revenue coming in in response to their fundraising mailout to businesses and organizations, and some of the donors are more generous than in previous years. Committee secretary-treasurer Deanna Easthope says she and her fellow committee members "have our fingers crossed" that the trend will continue and that enough funds will be collected to meet the budget for this year's celebrations.

A packed calendar for other community groups on the same evening cut into attendance at the May 2 Canada Day meeting, so the group is still awaiting confirmation on a number of the activities.

Lynda Letwin reported that tickets for the Elementary School parents' playground fundraiser, July 1 Doc Walker concert are about half sold, and going well. A popular band from this area, Country Fyre, will open for the featured entertainers.

Watch for further updates on Elk Point's July 1 lineup as they become available.

Walkers raise $1562.71

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Eight walkers raised a total of $1562.71 in pledges at the 2006 Elk Point and District Lions Walk for Sight on Saturday.

It was a close race for the School Challenge trophy but visually challenged student Colin Routhier and former principal Jim Hawkins accepted the honours for F. G. Miller High School, which edged out Elk Point Elementary and Heinsburg Community School with a $372.00 total.

George Hahn accepted the trophy for the most funds raised by an individual, with $390 in pledges, as well as winning the Oilfield Challenge trophy over BMW.

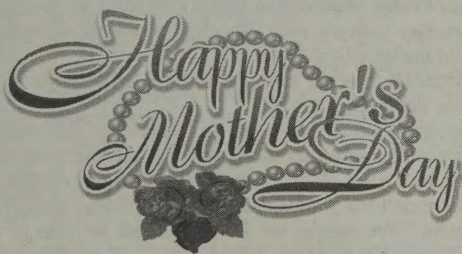

Hawkins, who was first to complete the 10 km. circuit, also received the prize for the oldest participant, while Torrica Gibbard was the youngest registered walker.

Walk organizer, Lion Stacy Dunham, thanked the walkers, the workers and the fire department and ambulance crews whose flashing lights alerted motorists to the presence of walkers on SH 646. "We couldn't do it without you," Dunham said.

Receipts from the walk will be divided between local projects and a donation to the Lions Foundation which trains seeing-eye dogs for visually challenged individuals.

Dunham said he hopes to have another seeing-eye dog visit Elk Point again next year, to increase awareness of the program and of the Walk for Sight that helps to fund it.

All walkers and riders, as well as participants in the St. Paul Lions car rally who visited the Elk Point Lions concession as one of the checkpoints on their route, enjoyed freshly barbecued burgers or hot dogs cooked up by Lion Keith Campbell and donated by Home Town Grocers and Footprints.

Recognition for energy sector

The economic development committee is also spearheading an appreciation event next week, and Kondla says everything is set to go for their May 15 salute to the energy sector. A short program and a complimentary supper are planned for the evening, which Kondla says will "recognize the sustainability and viability that jobs related to oil and gas add to our community."

A number of oil-related businesses have set up offices in Elk Point in recent weeks, the chamber was told. Buffalo Oil has set up its head office here, which Kondla says is "very important for Elk Point," and National Oilwell's Elk Point office will be the company's main centre for northeast Alberta. CCS is also establishing offices in Elk Point.

"Things are moving," Kondla says.

EDITORIAL

Give thanks where they are due

Next week, we'll be expressing our appreciation to two sectors of our business community, and in both cases, the thanks are long overdue.

The energy sector has been part of our community for the past 30 years, and over those years have at times been seen as the enemy of farmers and the environment and attractors of a transient population. Fortunately, those feelings have been swept away by the winds of change and progress, and the industry is now accepted and recognized as a vital source of employment for local workers, lease revenue for farmers and valued contributions toward community groups and projects. Many of the early 'transients' have now become long-time residents who are important to and involved in the community, and who we really hate to part with when they are transferred or retire to other areas.

The other sector to be recognized is one that's been around much longer - actually, ever since the days of the fur trade, and continuously since the first businesses opened their doors in the pioneer community of Elk Point. The staff that waits on our customers, who pour the coffee, find the right size bolts, put together our prescriptions, rent us a movie, pump our gas and box up our doughnuts are the people who promote our community on an ongoing basis. They are the first people out-of-town visitors see in Elk Point, and it is their friendly attitude we count on to keep those people coming back.

Thanks to both groups. Keep up the good work.

Way Back When...

'Alberta break,' aid request for ministers

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE ELK POINT REVIEW AND LAKELAND REVIEW DURING THE WEEK OF MAY 9 IN...

1986

Tourism Minister Horst Schmid paid a brief visit to Elk Point, emphasizing the importance of "taking an Alberta break" to the province's economy, especially in this area, which was experiencing a severe slowdown in the oilpatch. Elk Point and District Recreation and Cultural Board voted unanimously to disband, calling an uneasy halt to financial problems that had plagued the group.

1991

Elk Point Elementary School's first principal, Florence McDonnell, made the ceremonial cut to officially open the modernized and enlarged facility, with her 1991 counterpart, Don Conrad, a grade 3 student when the school opened in 1957, holding one end of the ribbon. Amoco foreman Ron Johnson reported that wells in operation had dropped by 25 per cent in recent months and cuts were being made to the drilling program due to continued low oil prices.

1996

The Lakeland Regional Health Authority asked Minister of Health, the Hon. Shirley McClellan, to consider Elk Point as an emergency site and able to attract a doctor from another country without that doctor having to serve an apprenticeship. Twenty-six people and seven dogs took part in the 10-kilometre Lions Journey for Sight, raising $2,771.50 in pledges.

2001

The long wait for the trip to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota was almost over for epilepsy victim Jeffrey Young and his mother Sherry, with donations continuing to trickle in to the fund set up by local volunteers. Tanya Pankiw came home with a gold medal from the Women's Junior National Handball tournament in Regina.

GUEST COLUMN

Moms are the best!

Moms are the best things that ever happened in the world. This coming Sunday, May 14, is Mother's Day, so let us remember our moms and tell them, and express to them in any of our special ways, our feelings about them. Let us not be lazy and let all the commercialism do the expressing - let us do it in our own unique way. Moms love to hear from their children, no matter what age they are.

Have you ever wondered about the roots of Mother's Day? They actually go back to the ancient festivals dedicated to mother goddess. IN the ancient Greek empire, Rhea, the wife of Cronus, and mother of gods and goddesses, was worshipped and honoured at this time every year in a spring celebration. In Rome, too, Cybele, a mother goddess, was worshipped as early as 250 BC. It was known as Hilaria, and it lasted for three days, called the Ides of March, that is, from March 15 to 18. In more recent times, during the 1600s, England observed "Mothering Sunday" or the Mid-Lent Sunday, on the fourth Sunday in Lent. It was quite identical to the modern-day celebrations. In England where small chapels of ease served the ordinary needs of the country parishioners, the people went on Mid-Lent Sunday to the 'Mother Church' of the parish, laden with offerings. The historians hypothesize that the Mother Church was substituted for Mother Goddess by the early church, who adopted the ancient Roman ceremonies in honour of Cybele to venerate Mother Mary. And this is why it became customary to visit

from the FCSS desk

the church on the day of baptism or on Mother's Day. In the United States, Anna M. Jarvis (1864-1948) is credited with bringing in the celebration of Mother's Day. Jarvis intended to start a Mother's Day as an honouring of mothers. The Philadelphia schoolteacher was inspired by her devotion to her own mother, to found a day dedicated to honouring mothers. It was two years after her own mother's death that Jarvis began spreading her idea. She wrote hundreds of letters seeking endorsement of the idea to congressional representatives, state governors, influential business people and to clergy. In 1910, her tireless efforts were rewarded. The governors of the American states of West Virginia, Oklahoma and Washington proclaimed Mother's Day an official occasion. Within a year, Mother's Day was being observed throughout the United States. Jarvis achieved her final victory in 1914, when U.S. President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation declaring the second Sunday in May as a day for public expression of love and reverence for mothers. The custom of observing Mother's Day quickly spread to Canada, where generations have celebrated it in the spirit Anna Jarvis first intended. At her suggestion, the carnation - her own mother's favourite - became the official flower of Mother's Day.

What about mothers? what makes them so special? Nancy Friday is quoted as saying, "When I stopped seeing my mother with the eyes of a child, I saw the woman who helped me give birth to myself."

Abraham Lincoln said, "All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my mother."

So, to all moms everywhere - you are the best, and please have a happy Mother's Day, just because we want to celebrate you. After all, as Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said, "That which the fountain sends forth returns again to the fountain." Yes, moms, we are who we are because of you.

Happy Mother's Day, Mom!

Sox strike out on road

By DOUG BASSETT
Review Sports

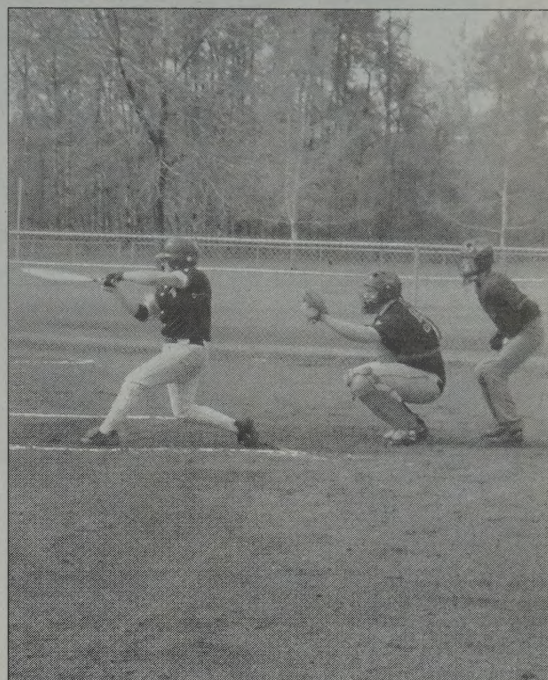

It's bad enough that the Sox had to open the season on the road, playing a double header two days in a row, but add to that, the first game was played in the rain against the host team, Stony Plain. By the time it was over the boys were soaked from head to toe. Ryan "Little M" MacDonald on the mound threw out the first pitch of the season for the Sox, doing as well as could be expected with his cleats full of gumbo clay from the wet mound. Things went down hill from there, playing South Jasper Place in the second game, then St. Albert and Sherwood Park on Sunday, the boys lost them all.

As bad as it was, you can always find some positives, so here are the highlights. Backcatcher Brett Younghans and second baseman Jerin Bezpalko hit singles, Theron Poitras a RBI single, first baseman "Tater" Jensen with two singles, two RBIs and a sensation sliding catch into the visitors dugout on a foul ball, Corbin Poitras two singles, an RBI and some fine diving catches in center field. Brad Swedgen had an RBI single and a couple of catches in right field, Tyler Loughran a nice double to the center field fence, and some great pitching and back catching. Also on the mound for the first time ever, Harley Delorme, Devin Quinney and Sonny Benson. The boys came to play, they learned a lot, but there's still plenty of work to be done on the practice field next week.

Down in the farm system in bantam play this past week, Dylan Loughran, and Dylan Berg were both looking good on the mound, Brett Lindquist pounding a couple long balls to the outfield and some mighty fine back catching by Jordyn Wozniak. Justine Wozniak, playing with the bantam boys, had two nice hits, driving in some runs.

And now for K.A. Campbell's quote of the week: "Washington- first in war, first in peace, last in the American League." Last week's answer to: "There are two things I teach the boys that are all American. One's the good old flag and one's baseball." - Sports writer Tim Murnane, 1908.

There was music, dance and motivation galore at F. G. Miller High School on Friday for the Junior High Wellness Day.

Leanne Wilson, a 2002 graduate who just obtained her BSc degree at the University of Alberta, told the students that the key to future success is "to learn how to learn on your own now." She also advised them that they will need really good high school marks if they wish to go to university and a lot of commitment. "If you learn to study now, it will help."

John Braga, FGM Class of 2004, misses the "enormous support network you have here," and said he found it "really intimidating" to have to find a professor to ask questions. "You have your teachers right here and they will make an effort to help you." He also suggested that students "develop a passion" as motivation to learn.

Braga plans to be a professor of theoretical physics when he finishes his BSc in Honours Physics, and obtains his Masters, PhD and post-doctoral studies. "After 12 years' training, I will start looking for a job."

Wilson plans to be a speech pathologist and help children and adults with speech troubles, after obtaining her Master's degree in "two more years and a lot of work."

A variety of entertainment completed the morning session.

Heinsburg celebrates learning for life

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

"I like the theme," said Heinsburg Community School open house guest speaker Crystal Arcand. "How true this is, that's the reality."

This year's Education Week theme, "Learning: it's yours for life," hit home with Arcand, who first met Heinsburg principal Carl Christensen 20 years ago when she was a troubled junior high student, sent by her mother to attend Life Values School near St. Paul.

"He was one of my role models."

Arcand acknowledges that, like many First Nations people today, she dealt with "a lot of challenges," including drugs, alcohol, peer pressure and "trying to fit in."

"I was a troubled child, always running away. I didn't listen to my mother, and I drank every weekend."

While attending Life Values school, she was scheduled to go on a student trip to Expo 86 in Vancouver, but "decided my friends were more important" than hurrying back to school. "I missed the bus. I cried and cried."

Arcand cried even more when she found she would spend the time at a teacher's house, but it was there she started her healing journey. Long talks with Christensen led to involvement in the school's martial arts program, to which Arcand "took to, hook, line and sinker," Christensen said.

Arcand eventually became a Golden Gloves boxer with 21 fights and 11 knock-outs to her credit. Her most prominent fight was against Laila Ali, daughter of boxing legend Mohammed Ali.

"I lasted 71 seconds in my first pro fight," Arcand says. "Yes, I lost, but you've got to keep a smile on your face and keep going."

The mother of three, Arcand says "I gave my mom a hard time. It's hard being a parent, getting the children off to school and guiding them. Everyone needs an education, and hopefully they pick that up, and set goals and dreams for themselves."

As a parent, Arcand says, "you've got to walk the walk. Your children are watching you. I'm proud to say I'm a role model. I watch what I say and what I do, now that I have children. My children look up to me. The best thing we can do for our children is stand beside them and guide them."

Christensen is proud of his former student, and says it's "important to know that our youth are potentially tremendous adults. I think Crystal has a bright future."

Wellness Day

Elk Point Elementary students Hannah and Madeline Ludlage entertained with two lively Hip-hop dancing routines, and were followed by a quartet of senior high Ukrainian Dancers.

Musicians Walter Anderson and Amie Price provided both music and wisdom for the students.

Anderson, who said F. G. Miller principal Laverne Wilson had taught three generations of his family, said he, himself, "didn't have the opportunity children today have." He came from a broken home and lived through the hungry '30s and walked to school. "I only went to Grade 8."

His musical education, however, started when he was four years old. "I grew up with a fiddle. When you find something you love to do, never let it go. I quit playing for 20 years when I first had a family."

As a young man, Anderson dreamed of being a champion fiddler. "I had a chance to learn from Al Cherny, but I was only 16, and working, and I didn't take that chance. Today, I'm sorry. It broke up my dreams. I'm not a champion, but I do the best I can."

Price went to school in Elk Point. "I started in 1944 and I went to a country school for three years,then they bused us to Elk Point until 1956. We moved to Vancouver Island and I went to school one more year there, then I though I knew enough. If I'd kept going, I would have better off. I had a chance, but decided to go to work. Nowadays you have to have high school to even get a job." He felled timber for 20 years "and only got smashed up twice."

Raised in a musical family which "all played instruments," Price regrets not learning to play the fiddle. "My parents did." his love was country music but he got into a rock and roll band, and later gave up music entirely for 10 years.

Now, "Walter and I play as often as we can. We try to play for the older people, they enjoy our music so much."

Price's advice to today's students is, "pursue your dreams, and don't quit."

Anderson's lively fiddle music accompanied Grade 7 student Blake Desjarlais as he performed the Métis broom dance, belt dance and Red River Jig for his fellow students.

Following a break for a lunch of stew and bannock prepared by the Grade 9 Home Ec class, the students heard from 2005 FGM grad Josh Boyko, who is a musician in a popular band named Mockteerah.

Boyko started playing the guitar in Grade 7. "My dad taught me a few chords. Music was nothing for me, but studying was harder. I could have quit so many times. but the world works on what you're being taught. You've got to be two people, the one that learns what you need to know and one that does what you enjoy."

In the beginning of his musical career. Boyko said "I didn't think it would go anywhere. Those Sound Dragons tapes were pretty bad, but we evolved. It was practice, practice, practice. "

The band evolved and went on. His newest band became Mockteerah. "It's a release for me, it's a stress reliever to play music. We're playing gigs all the time., and did some recording. We're on the radio. You know what? It can happen."

Boyko says "a lot of people stood behind me, parents, teachers. If it weren't for them, I don't know where I'd be."

For the balance of the day, students had a choice of recreational activities, from a sock hop to karaoke, slow pitch to flag football, as well as enjoying the Dance Master.

The theme of Wellness Day was "Passion: Passion for Learning, Passion for Culture." The day focused on the emotional, physical and intellectual aspects of wellness.
